Automating workflows

By connection several most-used applications through API's, I make it possible to automate certain repetitive tasks. The big advantage of a more efficient work-environment motivates me in my never-ending search for new possibilities in what else can be automated.

Within Lemming Film, this has led to a significant reduction in workload. Cost reports are continuously synchronized with Lemming Film's administration, several weekly overviews are automatically sent to relevant team members, and invoices and payment confirmations are automatically gathered upon our auditor's request.

This knowledge can be widely implemented. For WeTicket, a new and innovative ticketing platform, I developed a workflow where each month all invoices are automatically sent to their customers, and an email containing all details regarding that month's revenue is sent to the CEO.
